Shade Trees

CHINESE ELM

This popular fast growing tree is steadily proving its worth and we can heartily recommend it for the quickest growing shade tree you can plant. It roots deep and withstands drought better than any other variety. It grows rapidly, producing a very satisfactory shade tree in five to six years.

It makes a nice compact top, leaves are small and dark green and in this section we have never found a borer yet working on a Chinese Elm. Very hardy, easy to transplant and very satisfactory. We offer several sizes of nice transplanted trees with fine root systems.
